June 10, 1944 No. 62

MORE EGGS IN THE HOME REFRIGERATOR is urged by War Food Administrator Jones because there are 1,400 carloads—25 million dozens of eggs for which no cold storage space can be found. If current abundance can be saved it will soon be possible to handle all egg supplies in the usual manner. The intense use of all media, national and local, is required to meet this emergency.

HOME FCOD PRESERVATION Two sound films, "Canning the Victory Crop", and "Saving the Garden Crop", are expected to be available for intensive use by Nutrition Committees during July, previously designated as Home Food Preservation month. These films emphasize the importance of home canning and storing of this summer's crops of fruits and vegetables for the winter when civilian supplies will be low.

GROW MORE...CAN MORE...IN '44 is the catch line of a poster scheduled to be ready for distribution, chiefly to the retail trade, well before the first of July. The use of this poster is a part of the general campaign urging people to preserve more of this season's crop of fresh fruits and vegetables. Bulk distribution will be made to the regional offices of OD and to State Extension offices, in addition to direct distribution to retailers.

POULTRY PRESERVATION . . . A fact sheet just out urges increased home canning and freezing of poultry during the next 6 months when farmers will be culling and selling large numbers of fowl to get rid of low-producing hens. Short feed supplies and egg marketing difficulties are causing poultrymen to cull their flocks more closely this year. Too, storage space and labor are scarce; crates, other containers, and shipping facilities are limited. This fact sheet carries BHN&HE pointers on how to can and freeze poultry.
